Two pennies, the price of one issue of The Gettysburg Times does not pay for the paper and ink contained in it. When the item of production, manpower, composition, electricity, delivery and other expenses are included it does not require an expert mathematician to figure the loss to a newspaper.

Thus, it becomes evident that the life of a newspaper, its degree of success, is dependent upon the sale of white space . . . the amount of advertising that is purchased by advertisers.

Liberty Twp. Board To Transport Pupils To Fairfield High

At a regular meeting of the board of school directors in Liberty township Saturday evening, the directors unanimously decided to transport high school pupils to the Fairfield high school for the remainder of the school-year beginning Monday, October 12. Between 25 and 30 boys and girls will be given transportation.

Many of the students of the Fairfield high school living in Liberty township had difficulty in getting to and from high school because of the tire and gasoline rationing relative to self-owned cars. Therefore, many taxpayers of the township urged the board of education to put on transportation in a manner in which tires and gasoline be secured under the present regulations of the O.P.A., a board spokesman said.

Emanuel Tresler, bus operator in Liberty township, who has been transporting elementary pupils in closed school areas for many years, was given a contract to transport high school students.

A week has been allowed for contracts to be approved and signed before the school bus will transport students to high school.

All high school students living within two miles of the bus route are expected to take the advantage of the transportation.

According to this contract for transportation the state pays 75 per cent of the total cost, and 50 per cent of the high school tuition.

8 TIRES AND 4 WHEELS STOLEN; VALUED AT $200

Tire thefts reported to state and local police this morning were under investigation here today with the loot amounting to more than $200.

Chief of Police Glenn Guise is probing the theft of four re-capped Firestone tires, size 8.25x20, that were stolen from a truck owned by J. I. Hereter and Son, Gettysburg, Saturday or Sunday night while the truck was stored in a garage at the brickyard. The theft was discovered this morning.

The tires, which were mounted on aluminum rims, were valued at about $150. A pair of Weede chains for the truck also are missing. This morning the truck was found standing on three blocks and a jack. Chief Guise said the thief or thieves probably gained entrance by crawling under a door.

Criminal division officers at the Gettysburg substation of the state motor police are seeking the thieves who sawed a lock off the garage at the mountain cottage of Harry Stauffer, Princess street, York, near Graeffenburg, Sunday night, and made off with four tires and the wheels on which they were mounted. The wheels were taken off Mr. Stauffer's car.

U.S. Sub Grunion Lost; Overdue In Pacific

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the submarine Grunion had been overdue in the Pacific for some time and must be presumed lost.

The Grunion, launched at Groton, Conn., last December 22, was commanded by Lieutenant Commander Mannert L. Abele, 39, of Quincy, Mass.

The brief Navy communique did not say how many men were aboard the submarine, but vessels of this class—1,523 tons—carry a normal complement of approximately 65 men.

This was the fifth submarine reported lost by the Navy since the war began—two, the Shark and the Perch, were presumed lost by enemy action when long overdue in the western and southwestern Pacific areas; the S-26 was lost in a collision off Panama and the Sea Lion was demolished at Cavite in Manila Bay to prevent capture.

The text of the brief communique, number 139:

"Pacific area

"1. The USS Grunion (submarine) has been overdue in the Pacific for some time and must be presumed to be lost.

"2. The next of kin of the personnel of the Grunion have been notified."

BYRNES ASKS NATION TO STOP LIVING-COST RISE

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, the economic stabilization director, said today that "we at home must unite in waging all-out war against any further increase in the cost of living of the American people."

The director, who resigned from the Supreme Court to take the new post at President Roosevelt's request, asserted that "today some people profit; many others suffer" as he warned "this war must be fought not only upon the battlefield, but upon the home front."

Byrnes talked at the Supreme Court building for news reel photographers before moving his offices to the White House to direct the economic stabilization program, following quick government action designed to halt rises in food and rent costs.

Following up Saturday's order extending price ceilings to 90 per cent of all food products, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who will help administer the general policies formulated by Byrnes and his economic stabilization board, last night ordered all rents rolled back to their March 1 levels.

The food price freeze, a 60-day emergency order to be followed soon by permanent ceilings for the duration, is effective today. It enjoins all retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and processors to charge no more than the highest price they charged between September 28 and October 2.

Only important foodstuffs excepted were fresh fish, most fresh fruits and vegetables, and peanuts, which (Please Turn to Page 2)

Slight Gain Is Made By Foe In City

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Germans poured a constant stream of reserves into Stalingrad along "the road of death" today, swelling their forces in the area to more than half a million, but they still had not achieved a breakthrough or material advance, Soviet dispatches reported.

The mid-day Soviet communique said the Red Army itself had improved its position northwest of the city but that the Nazis in a determined drive upon a Stalingrad factory settlement forced the defenders to withdraw somewhat during the night.

The government newspaper Pravda said the German command loosed the assault in this sector after bringing up two more infantry divisions and one tank division, increasing its strength to 35 divisions.

After bettering their position northwest of the city, Russian troops were reported locked in battle with Germans clinging to a strongly fortified hill.

Liberty Twp. Board To Transport Pupils To Fairfield High

At a regular meeting of the board of school directors in Liberty township Saturday evening, the directors unanimously decided to transport high school pupils to the Fairfield high school for the remainder of the school-year beginning Monday, October 12. Between 25 and 30 boys and girls will be given transportation.

Many of the students of the Fairfield high school living in Liberty township had difficulty in getting to and from high school because of the tire and gasoline rationing relative to self-owned cars. Therefore, many taxpayers of the township urged the board of education to put on transportation in a manner in which tires and gasoline be secured under the present regulations of the O.P.A., a board spokesman said.

Emanuel Tresler, bus operator in Liberty township, who has been transporting elementary pupils in closed school areas for many years, was given a contract to transport high school students.

A week has been allowed for contracts to be approved and signed before the school bus will transport students to high school.

All high school students living within two miles of the bus route are expected to take the advantage of the transportation.

8 TIRES AND 4 WHEELS STOLEN; VALUED AT $200

Tire thefts reported to state and local police this morning were under investigation here today with the loot amounting to more than $200.

Chief of Police Glenn Guise is probing the theft of four re-capped Firestone tires, size 8.25x20, that were stolen from a truck owned by J. I. Hereter and Son, Gettysburg, Saturday or Sunday night while the truck was stored in a garage at the brickyard. The theft was discovered this morning.

The tires, which were mounted on aluminum rims, were valued at about $150. A pair of Weede chains for the truck also are missing. This morning the truck was found standing on three blocks and a jack. Chief Guise said the thief or thieves probably gained entrance by crawling under a door.

Criminal division officers at the Gettysburg substation of the state motor police are seeking the thieves who sawed a lock off the garage at the mountain cottage of Harry Stauffer, Princess street, York, near Graeffenburg, Sunday night, and made off with four tires and the wheels on which they were mounted. The wheels were taken off Mr. Stauffer's car.

U.S. Sub Grunion Lost; Overdue In Pacific

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Navy announced today that the submarine Grunion had been overdue in the Pacific for some time and must be presumed lost.

The Grunion, launched at Groton, Conn., last December 22, was commanded by Lieutenant Commander Mannert L. Abele, 39, of Quincy, Mass.

The brief Navy communique did not say how many men were aboard the submarine, but vessels of this class—1,526 tons—carry a normal complement of approximately 65 men.

This was the fifth submarine reported lost by the Navy since the war began—two, the Shark and the Perch, were presumed lost by enemy action when long overdue in the western and south-western Pacific areas; the S-26 was lost in a collision off Panama and the Sea Lion was demolished at Cavite in Manila Bay to prevent capture.

The text of the brief communique, number 139:

"Pacific area

BYRNES ASKS NATION TO STOP LIVING-COST RISE

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, the economic stabilization director, said today that "we at home must unite in waging all-out war against any further increase in the cost of living of the American people."

The director, who resigned from the Supreme Court to take the new post at President Roosevelt's request, asserted that "today some people profit; many others suffer" as he warned "this war must be fought not only upon the battlefield, but upon the home front."

Byrnes talked at the Supreme Court building for news reel photographers before moving his offices to the White House to direct the economic stabilization program, following quick government action designed to halt rises in food and rent costs.

Following up Saturday's order extending price ceilings to 90 per cent of all food products, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who will help administer the general policies formulated by Byrnes and his economic stabilization board, last night ordered all rents rolled back to their March 1 levels.

The food price freeze, a 60-day emergency order to be followed soon by permanent ceilings for the duration, is effective today. It enjoins all retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers and processors to charge no more than the highest price they charged between September 28 and October 2.

Only important foodstuffs excepted were fresh fish, most fresh fruits and vegetables, and peanuts, which (Please Turn to Page 2)

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Oct. 5 (AP)—The Germans poured a constant stream of reserves into Stalingrad along "the road of dead" today, swelling their forces in the area to more than half a million, but they still had not achieved a breakthrough or material advance, Soviet dispatches reported.

The mid-day Soviet communique said the Red Army itself had improved its position northwest of the city but that the Nazis in a determined drive upon a Stalingrad factory settlement forced the defenders to withdraw somewhat during the night.

The government newspaper Pravda said the German command loosed the assault in this sector after bringing up two more infantry divisions and one tank division, increasing its strength to 35 divisions.

2 ARRESTED AFTER MISHAP

The driver and an occupant of a car that was damaged in a collision with a sidewalk of the Willoughby run bridge, a mile west of here on the Lincoln highway, Saturday morning, were nabbed by state and borough police and were arraigned before local officials on summary charges.

Edward Long, New Oxford, driver of the car, was charged before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder by Private John M. Micka, of the state motor police, with reckless driving in that he permitted intoxicated persons to occupy the front seat of the machine he was operating and interfere with his driving.

James J. Long, New Oxford, listed as the owner of the car, was fined $5 by Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer on a charge of drunken and disorderly conduct. A youth who was fishing along Willoughby run and saw three men abandon the damaged car after the accident helped police in the identification of the Longs and Francis Chrismer as the occupants of the machine.

The three men escaped injury in the crash but damage to the car was placed at $50. The mishap occurred about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning but did not come to the attention of police until later.

STALIN'S LETTER CALLS ON ALLIES TO MEET PLEDGE

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Copyright, 1942, by The Associated Press

Moscow, Oct. 5.—The United States and British ambassadors today discussed informally the Stalin letter which called upon Russia's allies to fulfill their obligations fully and on time, and they are expected to seek an explanation of some of its phrases.

The main issue appears to be whether the creation of a second front in 1942, which is generally held by Russians to be an Allied obligation, should be so considered by the governments involved.

The two ambassadors, Admiral William H. Standley and Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, met at luncheon at Spasso House, the U. S. Embassy.

By The Associated Press
Moscow, Oct. 5.—Of-voice Russian desires for speedy establishment of a second front were given new urgency today by a blunt statement from Joseph Stalin and he called on the Allies to fulfill their pledges of aid fully and without delay.

The help they have delivered to date, he declared, has been comparatively ineffective.

Stalin's statement was delivered in the form of a letter answering three questions submitted to him in writing by this correspondent, chief of the Moscow bureau of The Associated Press, and represented the Soviet Premier's first public utterance on the second front issue in more than a year.

The text of the letter, typed on a plain sheet of white notepaper and signed in a bold hand, follows:

"Dear Mr. Cassidy:
"Owing to the pressure of work and my consequent inability to grant you an interview, I shall confine myself to a brief written answer to your questions.

"One: 'What place does the possibility of a second front occupy in the Soviet estimates of the current situation?'"

"Answer: A very important place—one might say a place of first rate importance.

"Two: 'To what extent is Allied aid to the Soviet Union proving effective and what could be done to amplify and improve this aid?'"

"Answer: As compared with the aid which the Soviet Union is giving to the Allies by drawing upon itself the main force of the German Fascist, the aid of the Allies to the Soviet Union has so far been little effective. In order to amplify and improve this aid, only one thing is required: That the Allies fulfill their obligations fully and on time.

"Three: 'What remains of the Soviet capacity for resistance?'"

"Answer: I think that the Soviet capacity of resisting the German brigands is in strength not less, if not greater, than the capacity of Fascist Germany or of any other aggressive power to secure for itself world domination.

"With respect,
"J. Stalin."

This communication, written in Russian and accompanied by an authorized English translation, was handed to me yesterday by Nikolai Palgunov, chief of the foreign office press department, only 24 hours after I had submitted by queries at the gate of the Kremlin.

Confirms Churchill Report
In effect, it confirmed the report which Prime Minister Churchill carried back to Britain after his visit to Moscow in August—that Russia is not satisfied with the support she has been receiving from her Allies.

Stalin himself made no statement after Churchill's visit—in fact his last public reference to the second front question was on Nov. 6, 1941, when he told a meeting of Communist party leaders celebrating the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

"One of the reasons for the reverses of the Red Army is the absence of a second front."

The second front has been a major issue since Foreign Commissar Molotov's visit to London and Washington last May and the subsequent publication of joint American and British communiques announcing that "complete understanding was reached with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

Allied Obligation
There have been frequent reference to the question since then in the Soviet press, which has reflected the belief that the main obligation of the Allies is the opening of a second front.

"[Dispatches from London said that Stalin's statement had received wide attention in Britain.]
The Soviet people learned of their leader's feelings over the lack of a second front and insufficient aid today through Pravda, Communist party organ, which carried a front-page story headlined:

"Answer of Comrade Stalin to questions of correspondent of American agency, The Associated Press."

COURT TO HEAR DIVORCE ACTION

Violet May Raffensperger, Gettysburg and Thomas H. Raffensperger, Philadelphia, principals in a divorce action in the Adams county courts, were ordered into court on Monday, October 19, at 1:30 o'clock for the purpose of producing further testimony in the case in an order handed down in court here on Saturday by Judge W. C. Sheely.

The divorce case was before the court on exceptions filed by Mrs. Raffensperger to the report of the master filed here some time ago in which it was recommended that the divorce be refused. The decree is being asked on grounds of desertion.

In Saturday's order Judge Sheely directed that both bring into court any written agreements or other papers relating to the case. In the order, the court also asks for a copy of the master's report in a divorce action started in 1941 in Philadelphia by Mr. Raffensperger. Other circumstances surrounding the Philadelphia suit must be cleared up before a ruling can be made in the action that is pending here, the court ruled.

In response to a petition also filed on Saturday the court allowed Miss Etta K. King, Gettysburg R. D., to be added as a claimant in the damage claim by Jacob I. King as a result of the re-location of the Western Maryland railroad tracks east of here more than a year ago. A hearing in the Kin claim is set for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the law library at the court house before a court-appointed board of viewers.

MAN WALKING ON ROAD KILLED

George E. Riffe, 38, Hanover, was killed instantly while walking along the Silver Springs-Littlestown highway when struck by an automobile operated by Garlan Halter, Westminster R. D., Maryland, Sunday night about 8:45 o'clock.

His wife, Hazel, and a daughter, Hilda, aged four years, are patients in the Hanover General hospital as the result of having been struck by Mr. Riffe when he was bowled over by the car, both having been walking with him at the time. Mrs. Riffe has a possible fracture of the left leg and is suffering from contusions and abrasions. The daughter is suffering from bruises and shock.

According to Patrolman Dashiell, of the Maryland state police, the Riffes had motored to a relative's home near Westminster and were enroute home when the lights of the car went out on commission a short distance north of Silver Run. Mr. and Mrs. Riffe and their daughter walked back to Silver Run to get a mechanic to repair the lights and it was on their return trip to the car that the accident occurred.

Halter told the policeman that he didn't see Riffe until his car was on top of him.

Riffe suffered a fractured skull, compound fractures of the legs and severe abrasions. The Riffes were walking north on their right side of the road and Halter was proceeding north, the investigation showed.

Goering Talk Shows Need Of Second Front

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 5 (AP)—Ten points emphasized by Reichsmarshal Goering in yesterday's long and labored pep-talk to the German people were interpreted by Allied observers today as support for the thesis that a second front would go far toward ending the war in Europe by next summer.

The harvest festival address by the No. 2 Nazi, on the other hand contained Germany's formula for defense in the coming months and in that respect could be taken as ample warning that Allied action must be well under way before the formula is completely operative.

Conservative military observers, who can not be identified by name, believe that should Germany be able to effect a portion of her organization program the war might be lengthened by years.

Goering concerned himself largely with assuring the German people they would be fed.

probably will be considered later on a seasonal basis.

The rent order, a further carrying out of President Roosevelt's anti-inflation directives, was to be issued today.

All landlords who have raised rents in the last seven months will be asked to reduce them to the March 1 levels.

Henderson said the stabilization order, covering an estimated 80,000,000 households living outside the 395 defense rental areas already designated, would mean that "the cost of housing to American families—the most important single item in their budget—will be kept stable throughout the war."

In addition to controlling rents, he said existing regulations would be changed to prevent eviction of tenants through the sale of property, except in cases of legitimate real estate transactions or where hardship would result if the property-owner could not regain possession.

Henderson noted what he called "a growing practice of owners forcing tenants to purchase the premises in many cases at exorbitant prices." Declaring this practice frequently was a device to avoid the effect of rent control, he said it must stop.

Enforcement machinery will be set up as rapidly as feasible, Henderson said, and in this connection Paul A. Porter, deputy administrator in charge of rents, indicated that additional funds would be sought for OPA. Congress approved only $120,000,000 of its $210,000,000 request last summer.

Byrnes, 63-year-old South Carolinian who stepped down from the Supreme Court bench, to which he was appointed from the Senate only last year, to take what President Roosevelt described as "one of the most important positions in the country," grasped the economic helm with a minimum of comment.

It will be his task, under broad directive powers from the President, to dictate general policies governing wages and salaries as well as prices, rents and other factors affecting the daily lives of every civilian.

The wage, salary and farm price levels prevailing on September 15 last will be taken as the stabilization point.

To complete the top set-up, the President was expected soon to appoint two representatives each of labor, management and farmers to serve with Byrnes and his department-head colleagues on the stabilization board.

So sweeping was the scope of the anti-inflation program that there was little disposition on the part of industrial, labor or farm leaders to comment pending a thorough analysis.

Most vocal of the early criticisms came from the farm group, with two southern Senators expressing fear that Congressional steps to uphold agricultural prices might be nullified under terms of the President's executive order. Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, declared it was "difficult to ascertain as yet just how the farm labor question fits in."

"If I interpret the new program correctly," Goss said in an interview, "the War Labor board's powers have been extended to cover agricultural labor. If this is true, agriculture would certainly want representation on the WLB."

IT'S NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 4 TO 10 FIRE—OUR BIGGEST ENEMY

Since time began, fire has been a constant source of comfort—and disaster. It has protected us from the cold—and it has put us out in the cold. It is a helpful thing—and it is a dangerous thing. The lesson National Fire Prevention Week strives to put across is one of replacing Fire's ability to destroy. The amount of damage done by fire each year would equip us with a Two Ocean Navy. If fire worked only as our friend, hundreds of lives would not be lost and untold misery would be obliterated. But fire respects no laws. During National Fire Prevention Week, do your part to wipe out fires by preventing them. Don't take chances. Don't do cleaning with dangerous fluids. Don't attempt amateur electrical work. STALIN'S LETTER CALLS ON ALLIES TO MEET PLEDGE

Copyright, 1942, by The Associated Press

Moscow, Oct. 5—The United States and British ambassadors today discussed informally the Stalin letter which called upon Russia's allies to fulfill their obligations fully and on time, and they are expected to seek an explanation of some of its phrases.

The main issue appears to be whether the creation of a second front in 1942, which is generally held by Russians to be an Allied obligation, should be so considered by the governments involved.

The two ambassadors, Admiral William H. Standley and Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, met at luncheon at Spasso House, the U. S. Embassy.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Copyright, 1942, by The Associated Press

Moscow, Oct. 5—Of-voiced Russian desires for speedy establishment of a second front were given new urgency today by a blunt statement from Joseph Stalin and he called on the Allies to fulfill their pledges of aid fully and without delay.

The help they have delivered to date, he declared, has been comparatively ineffective.

Stalin's statement was delivered in the form of a letter answering three questions submitted to him in writing by this correspondent, chief of the Moscow bureau of The Associated Press, and represented the Soviet Premier's first public utterance on the second front issue in more than a year.

Text of Letter

The text of the letter, typed on a plain sheet of white notepaper and signed in a bold hand, follows:

"Dear Mr. Cassidy:

"Owing to the pressure of work and my consequent inability to grant you an interview, I shall confine myself to a brief written answer to your questions.

"One: 'What place does the possibility of a second front occupy in the Soviet estimates of the current situation?'

"Answer: A very important place—one might say a place of first rate importance.

"Two: 'To what extent is Allied aid to the Soviet Union proving effective and what could be done to amplify and improve this aid?'

"Answer: As compared with the aid which the Soviet Union is giving to the Allies by drawing upon itself the main force of the German Fascist, the aid of the Allies to the Soviet Union has so far been little effective. In order to amplify and improve this aid, only one thing is required: That the Allies fulfill their obligations fully and on time.

"Three: 'What remains of the Soviet capacity for resistance?'

"Answer: I think that the Soviet capacity of resisting the German brigands is in strength not less, if not greater, than the capacity of Fascist Germany or of any other aggressive power to secure for itself world domination.

"With respect,

"J. Stalin."

This communication, written in Russian and accompanied by an authorized English translation, was handed to me yesterday by Nikolai Paltunov, chief of the foreign office press department, only 24 hours after I had submitted by queries at the gate of the Kremlin.

Confirms Churchill Report

In effect, it confirmed the report which Prime Minister Churchill carried back to Britain after his visit to Moscow in August—that Russia is not satisfied with the support she has been receiving from her Allies.

Stalin himself made no statement after Churchill's visit—in fact his last public reference to the second front question was on Nov. 6, 1941, when he told a meeting of Communist party leaders celebrating the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

"One of the reasons for the reverses of the Red Army is the absence of a second front."

The second front has been a major issue since Foreign Commissar Molotov's visit to London and Washington last May and the subsequent publication of joint American and British communiques announcing that "complete understanding was reached with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

Allied Obligation

There have been frequent reference to the question since then in the Soviet press, which has reflected the belief that the main obligation of the Allies is the opening of a second front.

The Soviet people learned of their leader's feelings over the lack of a second front and insufficient aid today through Pravda, Communist party organ, which carried a front-page story headlined:

"Answer of Comrade Stalin to questions of correspondent of American agency, The Associated Press."

His wife, Hazel, and a daughter, Hilda, aged four years, are patients in the Hanover General hospital as the result of having been struck by Mr. Riffe when he was bowled over by the car, both having been walking with him at the time. Mrs. Riffe has a possible fracture of the left leg and is suffering from contusions and abrasions. The daughter is suffering from bruises and shock.

According to Patrolman Dashiell, of the Maryland state police, the Riffes had motored to a relative's home near Westminster and were enroute home when the lights of the car went out of commission a short distance north of Silver Run. Mr. and Mrs. Riffe and their daughter walked back to Silver Run to get a mechanic to repair the lights and it was on their return trip to the car that the accident occurred.

Riffe suffered a fractured skull, compound fractures of the legs and severe abrasions. The Riffes were walking north on their right side of the road and Halter was proceeding north, the investigation showed.

Surviving are his wife, five children, John William, Mary Helen, Junior David, Betty May and Hilda, at home; his mother, Mrs. Maryann Elizabeth Riffe, Hanover, and two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Zepp, Westminster R. D., and Mrs. Emma Gable, Hanover.

Goering Talk Shows Need Of Second Front

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 5 (AP)—Ten points emphasized by Reichsmarshal Goering in yesterday's long and labored pep-talk to the German people were interpreted by Allied observers today as support for the thesis that a second front would go far toward ending the war in Europe by next summer.

The harvest festival address by the No. 2 Nazi, on the other hand contained Germany's formula for defense in the coming months and in that respect could be taken as ample warning that Allied action must be well under way before the formula is completely operative.

Conservative military observers, who can not be identified by name, believe that should Germany be able to effect a portion of her organization program the war might be lengthened by years.

Goering concerned himself largely with assuring the German people they would be fed.

session of a strategic height killed 150 Germans and destroyed some German equipment, it was reported.

The ferocity of the fighting within the city was indicated in the report that artillery and mortar fire wiped out a battalion of enemy infantry and destroyed 24 machine-gun posts and six gun and mortar batteries.

A furious German infantry attack was reported from the northwestern front, but the communiqué said it had been repulsed with heavy losses. Four hundred more Germans were killed in fighting for a populated place north of Voronezh, it added.

Main Strength at Stalingrad

In the Caucasus, somewhere in the Moxdok region, the Germans attempted to fight their way through a mountain gorge, but retreated in the face of stubborn resistance, leaving 80 dead, it was reported.

But the Germans obviously were throwing their main strength into the struggle for Stalingrad where the Russians were holding fast amid the smoking ruins for the 42d day.

Through the din of battle Stalingrad's factories continue to operate until forced to cease by the shellings or aerial bombardment, dispatches from the city said. When they are damaged so badly they can no longer function normally, they are converted into repair shops to handle damaged tanks and guns, it was stated.

Party leaders at the Stalingrad front issued a proclamation declaring "the fatherland demands that Stalingrad meet all tests no matter how difficult. Stalingrad must hold, no matter what the cost."

Pravda reported that the Germans were bringing up more reserves daily along "the road of dead" despite their large losses. The newspaper said two more infantry divisions and one tank division had arrived recently, bringing the total Nazi forces in the area to about 35 divisions or approximately 525,000 troops.

Holding Campaign Looms

The latest indication of Germany's intention to fight a holding campaign in Russia this winter came yesterday in a harvest festival address by Reichsmarshal Goering, No. 2 Nazi, who declared that Germany now knows "what the Russian winter is like. We will be able to stand it better. The enemy may attack all along the front, but he will be cheated at the final point."

There was a week-end let-up in the Allied air offensive from the west but Russian planes, on another sweep into Axisland from the east, were reported to have bombed Bratislava, capital of puppet Slovakia, last night.

Africa Squi Quiet

The Vichy radio reported German bombers were over Dover, Canterbury and other points of southern England last night. The British said, however, there was "nothing to report."

The land war in Africa was still in the doldrums.

In the far Pacific war zone, the Australian pursuit of the Japanese back-tracking through the New Guinea mountain jungleland from Port Moresby, has carried into or near the strategic gap in the Owen Stanley range, about 70 miles from Port Moresby.

Where the Japanese might choose to make a stand was a question but the mountain pass, more than a mile high, seemed likely.

Allied airmen further harassed the Japanese line of retreat and made a night smash at the Buka airdrome, at the northern tip of the Solomons.

Just Folks

FORCE INEFFECTUAL

They did not gain so very much
Who battered London town,
The shore they did not dare to touch
Who rained the missiles down.

For what are battered roof and spire
And sunken ship at sea
And rows of houses set on fire,
While men refuse to flee.

Tubbs is crumbled brick and stone
Of temple and bazaar,
And things which can be overthrown.

But hearts are stouter far!

And nothing force has power to do
With furious "blitz" and raid
Will count for much while hearts
are true,
And men are unafraid.

Today's Talk

SOMETHING ON WHICH TO HOLD

It is impossible for any human being to go through life happily
without "an anchor to windward"
—or without some soul-tie—as protection and assurance against the many devastating, disturbing and
confusing forces, that are certain
to confront every human being, no
matter what his station or environment in life may be.

Today, more than at any other
time in all the history of the world,
he forces that build character are being challenged.

I was recently criticized by a writer—who didn't sign his name—
or my insistent belief in a Supreme Being, watching over the destiny
of us all. The greatest inheritance
that came to me at birth was the
faith in God that my sainted
father and Mother assured me was mine, as I came into the years when I could think for myself. And now that they have been long gone, I appreciate the wealth of that inheritance.

I am troubled by none of the many controversies as to sects and creeds. It is enough to believe in the God who created me, and who ashioned the heavens and distributed wonders and beauty so wisely that I couldn't dis-believe [I wanted to. Dis-believers harp
upon science and nature as their argument against a personal God—
at the greatest scientists and cholars of the heavens, have all been believers.

The wildest savage—who has ever heard the name of God—invents his own! Human beings have always insisted upon tying to some form of higher force than their own. There are mysteries about nature and life that I shall never
be able to solve, but the mystery
of God is solved the moment that I
look upon everything that he has created. God is everywhere and in every thing.

A minister once wanted to see
the great Edwin Booth act in one of his plays, but he feared that some
of his parishioners might criticize his attendance at the Theatre, and so he wrote Booth asking if he could not be seated somewhere in the Theatre so that he would not be noticed. Booth replied: "There is no place in my Theatre where God cannot see."

To believe in God is to believe in ourselves. When all else darkens,
the knowledge of God is what lights
the way to confidence and security.
The essence of the Christian religion is simply love—and service.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "You Never Know."

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Balloon Ascension: On Saturday
afternoon last, there was another
beautiful ascension of Mr. Wise's Balloon from Gettysburg, but he did not ascend with it. By arrangement with him, made a few minutes previously, our intrepid young
townsman, Col. J. H. McClellan,
took his seat alone in the car, and
the cords being cut, he sailed off
handsomely with a fine breeze somewhat in the direction east of north.
The sky was cloudless and he remained in sight for a considerable
time, and when last seen was going
in an easterly direction. The number of persons assembled was very great, and the interest felt in this
first and unexpected ascension of our young neighbor was intense.

P. S. Mr. McClellan returned yesterday (Sunday), and we learn from him that he descended about 5 miles
from York, near Emich's mill, in a little less than an hour from the time he left us. He passed nearly over Hunterstown and Berlin and
could see the towns and country for 50 or 60 miles around, and speaks
with rapture of the sublimity of the scene. His object was to make a decent at or near York, and when preparing to do so, being from 2 to 3 miles high, he pulled the valve
rope with such force as to break off
the valve clapper, when the gas was immediately discharged, and he made his descent on the parachute
principle, with a great rapidity, but without injury to himself or balloon.

County Meeting: A very large
meeting of the Harrison Democrats

as vice presidents, and F. G. Hoffman and S. W. Duffield, secretary.
The meeting was addressed by James

Two Million School Children Join Scrap Drive

JALOPIES ARE SOUGHT; ASK 3 MILLION TONS

Harrisburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—Pennsylvania today concentrated on a three-way campaign to collect every pound of idle and discarded scrap
metal.

The drive to gather 3,000,000 tons
of scrap metal by Oct. 17 was intensified by the addition of nearly 2,000,000 school children to the campaigns now being conducted by Pennsylvania newspapers and salvage officials.

Under the new plan, schools will try to win War Production Board
plaques while counties will compete
for pennants to be awarded where
scrap collections reach 100 pounds
per capita from Sept. 28 to Oct. 17.
Warren R. Roberts, state salvage chairman reported appointment of the following committee to judge returns on the county contest for the WPB Victory pennants: Justice
George W. Maxey, of the state Supreme Court; William N. Hardy,
manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, and
V. K. Simpson, of Philadelphia.

Round Up Jalopies
Special effort will be made by newspapers in the next three weeks
to round up all the old "Jalopies"
in the state. Officials said each one contained at least 1,500 pounds of
valuable and needed scrap metal.

The school drive will be conducted
in cooperation with the other two campaigns but will get under way
today under the direction of Dr.
Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, who is the "commanding general."

County, city and rural school superintendents are "colonels"; principals are "majors"; teachers are
"captains," while the "lieutenants,"
the sergeants and the corporals are
from the rank and file of children
of all public, parochial and private schools.

Mayors of every city have been asked to urge "immediate saving
and collection" of tin cans as part of the three-point drive.

Harrisburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—If anyone wonders if it is possible to collect 100 pounds of scrap per person
in Pennsylvania, ask Chester county.

George M. Gillen, vice chairman
of the Chester county salvage committee, reported today its scrap drive has produced 125.3 pounds of
iron and steel scrap for every man,
woman and child in the county.
And what's more, located but not collected is enough scrap to bring the per capita totals up to 217.5
pounds.

The War Production Board is offering victory Pennants to every county which collect 100 pounds of scrap per capita between Sept. 28
and Oct. 17.

(By The Associated Press)

A bright-eyed army of America's
children set forth today to insure
their stake in the future in the best way they know how: Collecting scrap.

Millions of them already have been busy harvesting the precious metal junk but now they were massed on a nationwide basis to join the scrap campaign led by the country newspapers.

State Governors have called upon
them to do a complete job and, as they went about the search for old
metal needed by the mills' war furnaces, they had this assuring word
from President Roosevelt:

"I know they'll do their part."

The heritage they sought to keep
by sweat and work in the salvage
drive was freedom of speech, press
and religion.

They remembered that because sturdy and well-fed, they were a great democratic contrast to the children of Europe where food is scarce and terror strikes by day
and night.

Many a school declared a holiday
so that on this opening day of the two-week drive they could make a whirlwind showing.

The army of boys and girls in many states and towns was organized for the job on military lines:
As officers, privates, commandos,
scouts.

In Texas they became Junior
Texas Rangers—the first time such
a title was permitted—because of the seriousness of the job and the reverence in which Lone Star state
children hold the name.

faculty 17 years. He attended Shippensburg State Teachers' college, Franklin and Marshall college and became a school principal at Crescent. He also served 14 years as ough schools.

DuBois, Pa.—"My people fought
under terrible handicaps—fighting for Uncle Sam would be a
picnic!" That's what Jack Mala-
mas, 43-year-old Greek confectionery store proprietor here 17
years, said when he left to be drafted yesterday. And Malamas
—confident he's coming back and reluctant to sell his business—
made this deal with his landlord:
He'll pay half of his Army salary
as rent for the store. If he doesn't survive the war, the owner
of the building gets the business.

SHE TRIED

Denver—A water hose—and not
old age—kept Mrs. Adella Dixon, 82, from putting out the fire. She saw smoke pouring from the house
next door, ran out and grabbed
the hose but got tangled and tripped, breaking her arm. Firemen put out the fire.

BET THEY WON'T FIT

Salt Lake City—Collectors of
stamps, old coins and such are common, but the man Salt Lake
police would like to see is the one who collects artificial teeth. A whole tray of them—unmounted
and worth $230—disappeared from
Dr. W. R. Worley's waiting room.

LIQUOR STORE CLERKS FIRED FOR "HOLIDAY"

Philadelphia, Oct. 5 (AP)—
Closing of nearly every liquor store
in Philadelphia was forecast today
as managers were ordered to suspend approximately 325 clerks who demonstrated for a wage boost Saturday by taking a "holiday."

Frederic T. Gelder, head of the state Liquor Control Board, ordered
the suspension.
Union officials called his action
a "lockout" and said if a single clerk
was refused opportunity to return
to work pickets would be posted in front of each of the city's 87 stores.

Payless Suspension

Commenting on his suspension
order, Gelder said Governor James
has the legal right to dismiss any civil service employee for "the good of the service." He planned to confer with James, who was at the world series in New York Saturday.
"When the clerks return to work,
they will be suspended without pay," Gelder said. "The Liquor Board
has not ordered any stores closed.
But we'll have to close stores if we don't have a sufficient number of
clerks to operate them."

Max Breslow, field representative of the State, County and Municipal Workers' union (CWO), said employees would meet today before the
stores' opening time to map strategy.
He reported that 75 or 80 per cent
of store managers voted yesterday
to "support the clerks 100 per cent."

Stores Closed

According to Breslow, the managers decided to march en masse
to Liquor Board offices here and
protest unless the order barring the
clerks was rescinded by noon today.
The clerks' "holiday" Saturday
closed most liquor stores in Allegheny county and Philadelphia, as well as a number in Washington
and Beaver counties.

The union demands a 20 per cent
increase in base pay of $1,200 a year for clerks and a comparative
increase for managers.

Court Approves House Candidate

Pittsburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—The state Supreme court upheld today the
naming of John W. Murphy, Scranton attorney, as democratic candidate for Lackawanna county congressman to succeed the late Rep.
Patrick J. Boland, democratic whip
of the House.

Boland died the day before the
May 19 primary, but nevertheless
he received the largest number of votes. The democratic state executive committee, under the party
rules, chose Murphy to fill the vacancy.

Patrick McLane, who ran second
to Boland in the primary, and a group of Lackawanna county republican voters later appealed a Dauphin county court decision up-
holding the committee's nomination
and ordering that Murphy's name
be placed on the November ballot.

The appellants claimed that the substitute nomination should have been made by the voters writing in the name of another candidate on the primary ballots.

Murphy, arguing his own case, said
a write-in vote was impractical and that the vacancy should be filled as prescribed by the party rules.

SUBSTATIONS DAMAGED

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—The state police substation which houses seven members of the criminal investigation detail on nearby Rock-
view penitentiary grounds was damaged by fire yesterday. Deputy Warden C. C. Rhoads said a defective fuse touched off flames in the roof of the frame building.

U.B. CONFERENCE OPENS TUESDAY IN SHIPPENSBURG

The Gettysburg charge of the United Brethren church will be represented at the 154th annual session of the Pennsylvania Conference
of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ which will convene Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday
in Shippensburg. The Rev. E. E.
Spatz is pastor of the host church.

The Rev. Dr. N. B. S. Thomas,
who ended his ninth year as pastor
of the Gettysburg charge, will leave for the conference early Tuesday morning. David McDannell from Salem U. B. church is the lay delegate from the local charge and E.
E. Hutchison of Memorial U. B.
church here is the alternate.

Several Features

Several unique features combine
to make this year's meeting unusual. First, the progress toward organic unity of the Evangelical
and United Brethren denominations is arousing interest. "The joint commission on church federation and union of the church of the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical church" after a thorough canvass of the confession
of faith has issued a book entitled
"The Discipline of the Evangelical United Brethren Church," which study by the ministers and leading laymen of the two bodies before
final action is voted upon by the separate denominations. The fact that the outstanding representatives of both churches have agreed in this blending of discipline, does much to encourage
those who are anxious to see this evidence of Christian unity.

For the first time in many years
the conference will report a full benevolent budget. In the few instances in which handicapped
churches have not been able to meet their quotas in full, second
mile churches have given beyond their allotment, thus enabling the
conference to report a 100 per cent
offering toward benevolences assigned by the general conference.
In addition to this are the large
contributions toward the ministerial pension fund of $1,000,000. The majority of the churches in the cooperating territory will report their quotas as paid in full. Others are striving to pay their opportunity during the next year. Attention will be given to this objective
in the session. Judge William N.
McFaul, Baltimore, an outstanding denominational layman, will give an address, and other laymen will take part in a special period devoted to this church interest.

Large Contributions

While the churches will report
unusually large contributions for religious work, there will be a marked decrease in Sunday school attendance. Some of the larger churches report the smallest average attendance in many years.
The drafting and enlisting of multitudes of young men is keenly felt.
In addition to this, there is the Sunday working and the call for
men and women to leave home to assist in the war program. In spite of this obstacle to the boosting of Sunday school attendance, the pastors are reporting little decrease
in the number at the morning
preaching services. This is unique in church work in Pennsylvania,
with a proportionate increase in church in contrast with Sunday
school.

Special attention will be given to Lebanon Valley college in its relation to changing conditions growing out of the war and financial needs arising from these conditions. Dr. Elmer Funkhouser, a prominent churchman from Maryland, will preside at this meeting
and President Dr. Clyde A. Lynch
will address the gathering. The board of administration has been studying the situation and a special report will be read to the conference.

Rural Church Night

Wednesday night will be featured as rural church night, with
sections. Dr. W. V. Dennis, of Penn State college, will bring a special message relative to the work of the rural churches in the present emergency.

In order that the work of the
conference may be completed in three days, there will be a number of committee meetings Monday preparing reports and detail
work to be acted upon in the regular sessions. The Rev. Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Burger are members of the nominating committee, as is also the Rev. I. G. Nangle, Thurmont, Md. Other ministers from this vicinity who are members of committees include the Rev. Dr.
N. B. S. Thomas, Gettysburg, committee on Elders' Orders; the Rev.
W. M. Beattie, Jefferson, and the Rev. D. K. Reisinger, Greencastle, Md., Ministerial Pensions and Annuity, with the Rev. A. W. Garvin,
Taneytown, Md., as an associate;

the Rev. W. I. Kauffman, Manchester, Md., teller. The Rev. Mr. Beattie
is also a member of the Council
of Administration, and the Rev.
Mr. Reisinger as member of the
of Study. The Rev. Mr. Garvin is
the conference printer.

The theme of the Conference will

Crippled Flying Fort

holes in the fuselage. But the fortress fluttered back home, some of her crewmen wounded. Lieut. Paine's crew also included:

Co-pilot: Lieut. Robert Long, 25. Sweetwater, Tex.; navigator: Lieut. John A. Thomson, 23, St. Louis; bombardier: Lieut. Stanley A. Komarek, 27, Muskegon, Mich.; waist gunner: Sgt. Herbert M. Peterson, 21, of Des Moines; tail gunner: Sgt. Bent Taucher, 20, Rock Springs, Wyo.; radio gunner: Sgt. Arthur Bouthillier, 22, Westcott, R. I.; and radio gunner: Sgt. Walter Purcell, 20, of Kingston, Wash.

Trouble Started Soon

Paine joined the squadron the night before that biggest fortress raid yet upon the continent and saw the rest of his crew for the first time when they stepped into the plane.

"We had just crossed the target when trouble started," Paine related. "I suddenly heard shouts from every quarter of the plane 'here they come!'"

"About 40 FW-190's, including some from Goering's Yellow Nose Squadron, jumped us."

Attacked from all sides, the Fortress guns blazed back. Bouthillier's oxygen mask broke away from his face and he slipped to the floor unconscious. Purcell leaped to take his place at the gun, which jammed, but by the time he got it cleared a cannon shell cut his oxygen tube and he too became unconscious.

Then two cannon shells knocked a motor out and the Fortress began losing altitude.

"I started a long glide to save the lives of the radio men, as we were too high to go without oxygen," Paine said.

Bullet Holes Near Head

At this point an anti-aircraft shell ripped a hole in the wing and the rudder and stabilizer were damaged.

"I was so busy shooting at those German fighters coming up at us that I didn't notice anything," Taucher said. When he landed he found bullet holes three inches from his head and between his legs.

Another burst of cannon fire inside the Fortress knocked out some controls and Paine said the craft almost went out of control.

"The ship's nose wouldn't go down," he said. "We had to stand up in our seats and push forward with all our might. Then the ship slowly nosed down."

Nearing the coast, an anti-aircraft shell hit the plane and a cannon shell from a German fighter scored a direct hit on the upper turret, cutting Coburn's head badly. Blinded by blood, Coburn kept firing back until he fell unconscious between the two pilots.

A second motor went out over the channel and Sheeder was wounded slightly by a shell which hit the ball turret. Peterson also was wounded but continued the battle.

Finally the Germans gave up the chase in mid-channel and Paine made for the nearest airfield, scarcely a third of the size required for a Fortress to land on.

Paine saw a larger field and made for it, coming down in a belly-landing.

CHILD KIDNAP MULE

HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Michael Welsh, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Welsh, near Fairfield, suffered lacerations of the head, shock and concussion when the mule which he was riding along the Jack's mountain road west of Fairfield was struck by a car Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The boy was thrown to the ground and was treated later by Dr. Ira Henderson, Fairfield. The mule was so badly injured it had to be destroyed.

Private George Ackerson of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police investigated the accident but could not be reached today for a report on the mishap. The name of the driver could not be learned this afternoon.

THE MAN IN THE GREEN CAR

Julie was awake shortly after the sunlight broke over the tops of the tall pines. And long before there was any sound of stirring in the household. Restless, disturbed by the strange new twist of developments, she sat up, dressed quickly. Smartly tailored tan slacks, a soft yellow sweater, comfortable flat-heeled shoes. She'd take a long walk before breakfast. Maybe the fresh air would clear up her thinking.

But at the patio doorway she met Pete. Each started guiltily.

"Gosh, you startled me," Pete whispered. "Didn't know anyone else was up."

He finished filling the bowl of his well-caked pipe, picked up his canvas-wrapped fishing rod and a bait box. "Thought I'd catch us some trout for breakfast."

"Can I go with you?" Julie said on impulse and before she had time to reconsider.

"Sure"—carelessly. "It's a free country."

Rebuffed, Julie drew back. "Oh, never mind. I haven't a trout rod, anyhow. Some other time I'll—"

He shrugged. "Plenty of rods. I'll find you one," and disappeared into a huge closet under the stairway, returned a moment later with a pole and reel. "All set."

Then, like a pair of conspirators, they tip-toed out of the house, across the patio, started single-file up the trail.

For a while Julie forgot the strange tangle of events in the glory of the summer morning. Cool, fragrant air brought a glow to her cheeks and sunlight slanting through the spire-like trees touched all the forest greens into light and shadow. And although Pete ignored her completely as he tramped ahead, puffing on his pipe, stopping only occasionally to rest, she was content for the first time in years.

The trail was unusually well-marked for this early in the season. She thought once as she followed Pete along the narrow path—that skirted the canyon where a stream rushed noisily. Almost like an echo, Pete said.

"This trail's been used a lot lately, looks like," and stopped a moment to re-light his pipe. "Funny, too. Season's only been open a couple of time when they stepped into the plane.

Attacked from all sides, the Fortress guns blazed back. Bouthillier's oxygen mask broke away from his face and he slipped to the floor unconscious. Purcell leaped to take his place at the gun, which jammed, but by the time he got it cleared a cannon shell cut his oxygen tube and he too became unconscious.

Then two cannon shells knocked a motor out and the Fortress began losing altitude.

"I started a long glide to save the lives of the radio men, as we were too high to go without oxygen," Paine said.

Bullet Holes Near Head

At this point an anti-aircraft shell ripped a hole in the wing and the rudder and stabilizer were damaged.

"I was so busy shooting at those German fighters coming up at us that I didn't notice anything," Taucher said. When he landed he found bullet holes three inches from his head and between his legs.

Another burst of cannon fire inside the Fortress knocked out some controls and Paine said the craft almost went out of control.

"The ship's nose wouldn't go down," he said. "We had to stand up in our seats and push forward with all our might. Then the ship slowly nosed down."

Nearing the coast, an anti-aircraft shell hit the plane and a cannon shell from a German fighter scored a direct hit on the upper turret, cutting Coburn's head badly. Blinded by blood, Coburn kept firing back until he fell unconscious between the two pilots.

A second motor went out over the channel and Sheeder was wounded slightly by a shell which hit the ball turret. Peterson also was wounded but continued the battle.

Finally the Germans gave up the chase in mid-channel and Paine made for the nearest airfield, scarcely a third of the size required for a Fortress to land on.

CHILD RIDING MULE HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Michael Welsh, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Welsh, near Fairfield, suffered lacerations of the head, shock and concussion when the mule which he was riding along the Jack's mountain road west of Fairfield was struck by a car Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The boy was thrown to the ground and was treated later by Dr. Ira Henderson, Fairfield. The mule was so badly injured it had to be destroyed.

Private George Ackerson of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police investigated the accident but could not be reached today for a report on the mishap. The name of the driver could not be learned this afternoon.

Chapter 16

THE MAN IN THE GREEN CAR

Julie was awake shortly after the sunlight broke over the tops of the tall pines. And long before there was any sound of stirring in the household. Restless, disturbed by the strange new twist of developments, she got up, dressed quickly. Smartly tailored tan slacks, a soft yellow sweater, comfortable flat-heeled shoes. She'd take a long walk before breakfast. Maybe the fresh air would clear up her thinking.

But at the patio doorway she met Pete. Each started guiltily.

"Gosh, you startled me," Pete whispered. "Didn't know anyone else was up."

He finished filling the bowl of his well-caked pipe, picked up his canvas-wrapped fishing rod and a bait box. "Thought I'd catch us some trout for breakfast."

"Can I go with you?" Julie said on impulse and before she had time to reconsider.

Rebuffed, Julie drew back. "Oh, never mind. I haven't a trout rod, anyhow. Some other time!"

He shrugged. "Plenty of rods. I'll find you one," and disappeared into a huge closet under the stairway, returned a moment later with a pole and reel. "All set."

Then, like a pair of conspirators, they tip-toed out of the house, across the patio, started single-file up the trail.

For a while Julie forgot the strange tangle of events in the glory of the summer morning. Cool, fragrant air brought a glow to her cheeks and sunlight slanting through the spire-like trees touched all the forest greens into light and shadow.

And although Pete ignored her completely as he tramped ahead, puffing on his pipe, stopping only occasionally to rest, she was content—for the first time in years.

The trail was unusually well-marked for this early in the season, she thought once as she followed Pete along the narrow path that skirted the canyon where a stream rushed noisily. Almost like an echo, Pete said.

weeks. Besides, this is private property."

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Separated

Julie's fears roused themselves, milled ominously. "Maybe the caretaker comes through this way."

Pete shook his head. "Don't think there is one. Kelland said the last three he'd hired left him for the shipyards. More likely the forest ranger. There's a lookout station back up on the mountain."

A moment later, Pete stopped again. "That's a funny thing to do," and pointed to a deep gash freshly cut in a tall pine.

"And here's another!" Julie called to him not a hundred yards further along the trail.

In all, they found eleven trees so marked—a deep gash in the trunk. Always a large tree. Usually about twenty-five yards apart.

"If they weren't so regular, I'd think these trees had been marked to take out," Pete puzzled, scowling. "But these trees aren't old or rotten."

"They are all perfect and very tall," Julie tipped her head back to look up at the lofty branches pushing skyward.

"Probably Kelland's got some scheme for using them," Pete dismissed it finally and led the way down a steep bank to the stream's edge.

Julie scrambled after him, remembering with a rush of nostalgia, how often she'd "tagged" Pete and her brothers to just such fishing spots. Not always had she been too welcome, either, she smiled now. Nor was she sure that Pete was overjoyed to have her along this morning. Still, just seeing him striding along with his old quick step gave her enough to be thankful for.

Julie, trained to independence by two older brothers, baited her own hook, found her own way up and down the stream bank, left Pete free to lash the pools uninterrupted. She'd slipped four beautiful rainbow trout into her creel before she realized that she'd worked her way upstream too far to risk being stranded on some rocky perch. She crossed the stream on a precarious bridge of smooth rocks, started down the other side, fishing each pool as she went. She hadn't seen Pete for an hour.

She added two more trout to her catch before she took heed of the alarm ringing a bell in the back of her mind. She'd come downstream far enough to have caught up with Pete by now. Surely, she glanced around. There seemed to be no sign of a trail on the bank above. It rose precipitously, a tangle of thick underbrush. She must have taken a wrong fork somewhere.

Carefully she made her way back upstream again. This was certainly stupid, she told herself, holding a tight rein on the panicky feeling of being lost. She couldn't be far away from Pete.

And here was where the other stream branch joined

Just Folks

FORCE INEFFECTUAL
They did not gain so very much.
Who battered London town,
The shore they did not dare to touch
Who rained the missiles down.

And sunken ship at sea
And rows of houses set on fire,
While men refuse to flee.

Rubble is crumbled brick and stone
Of temple and bazaar,
And things which can be over-
thrown,
But hearts are stouter far!

And nothing force has power to do
With furious "blitz" and raid
Will count for much while hearts
are true,
And men are unafraid.

Today's Talk

TO HOLD

It is impossible for any human
being to go through life happily
without "an anchor to windward"
—or without some soul-tie—as protection and assurance against the
"confusing" forces that are certain
to confront every human being, no
matter what his station or environment in life may be.

Today, more than at any other
time in all the history of the world,
he forces that build character are
being challenged.

I was recently criticized by a critic—who didn't sign his name—
being, watching over the destiny
of us all. The greatest inheritance
that came to me at birth was the
faith in God that my sainted
father and Mother assured me was
mine, as I came into the years when I could think for myself. And now
that they have been long gone, I appreciate the wealth of that inheritance.

I am troubled by none of the many controversies as to seeds and reeds. It is enough to believe in the God who created me, and who
adorned the heavens and distributed wonders and beauty so richly that I couldn't dis-believe
I wanted to. Dis-believers harp
upon science and nature as their
argument against a personal God—
the greatest scientists and scholars of the heavens have all been believers.

The wisest savages—who have ever heard the name of God—mentals his own! Human beings have always unasked upon trying to someone of higher force than their own. There are mysteries about
nature and life that I shall never
be able to solve, but the mystery
of God is solved the moment that I
look upon everything that he has created. God is everywhere and in every thing.

A minister once wanted to see
the great Edwin Booth act in one
of his parishioners might criticize
his attendance at the Theatre, and so he wrote Booth asking if he could not be seated somewhere in his Theatre so that he would not be noticed. Booth replied: "There is no place in my Theatre where God cannot be seen."

To believe in God is to believe in
ourselves. When all else darkens,
the knowledge of God is what lights
the way to confidence and security.
The essence of the Christian religion is simply love—and service.

Out Of The Past
From the Files of the

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Balloon Ascension: On Saturday
afternoon last, there was another
beautiful ascension of Mr. Wise's
balloon from Gettysburg, but he did not ascend with it. By arrangement with him, made a few min-
townsman, Col. J. H. McClellan,
took his seat alone in the car, and
the cords being cut, he sailed off
handsomely with a fine breeze somewhat in the direction east of north.
The sky was cloudless and he remained in sight for a considerable
time, and when last seen was going
in an easterly direction. The num-
great, and the interest felt in this
first and unexpected ascension of our young hero was intense.

P. S. Mr. McClellan returned yesterday (Sunday), and we learn from him that he descended about 5 miles
from York, near Emich's mill, in a little less than an hour from the
over Hunterstown and Berlin and
could see the towns and country for
with rapture of the sublimity of the scene. His object was to make a descent at or near York, and when preparing to do so, being from 2 to 3 miles high, he pulled the valve
rope with such force as to break off
immediately discharged, and he
principle, with a great rapidity, but
without injury to himself or balloon.

County Meeting: A very large
meeting of the Harrison Democrats
was held at the court-house on Saturday afternoon—at which Samuel Diller presided, assisted by Col. John Walter, Capt. John Myers, Thomas McClary and Col. Robert Cobean
as vice presidents, and F. G. Hoffman and S. W. Duffield, secretary.
The meeting was addressed by James Dobbin, Esq., and Hon. James Cooper.

Stevens will be gratified to learn that his health continues to improve, and that there is every prospect of

Two Million School Children Join Scrap Drive

JALOPIES ARE SOUGHT; ASK 3 MILLION TONS

Harrisburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—Pennsylvania today concentrated on a
three-way campaign to collect every
metal.

The drive to gather 3,000,000 tons
of scrap metal by Oct. 17 was intensified by the addition of nearly 2,000,000 school children to the campaigns now being conducted by Pennsylvania newspapers and salvage officials.

Under the new plan, schools will
try to win War Production Board
plaques while counties will compete
scrap collections reach 100 pounds
per capita from Sept. 28 to Oct. 17.

Warren R. Roberts, state salvage
chairman reported appointment of
the following committee to judge returns on the county contest for the WPB Victory pennants: Justice
George W. Maxey, of the State Supreme Court; William N. Hardy,
manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, and
V. K. Simpson, of Philadelphia.

Round Up Jalopies
Special effort will be made by
newspapers in the next three weeks
to round up all the old "jalopies"
valuable and needed scrap metal.

The school drive will be conducted
in cooperation with the other two
campaigns but will get under way
today under the direction of Dr.
Francis B. Hans, superintendent of public instruction, who is the "commanding general."

County, city and rural school superintendents are "colonels"; principals are "majors"; teachers are
"captains," while the "lieutenants,"
the sergeants and the corporals are
from the rank and file of children
schools.

Mayors of every city have been
asked to urge "immediate saving
and collection" of tin cans as part

Harrisburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—If anyone wonders if it is possible to collect 100 pounds of scrap per person
in Pennsylvania, ask Chester county.

George M. Gillen, vice chairman
of the Chester county salvage committee, reported today its scrap
drive has produced 125.3 pounds of
iron and steel scrap for every man,
woman and child in the county.

And what's more, located but not
collected is enough scrap to bring
pounds.

The War Production Board is
offering victory pennants to every
county which collect 100 pounds of scrap per capita between Sept. 28
and Oct. 17.

(By The Associated Press)

children set forth today to insure
their stake in the future in the best
way they know how: Collecting
scrap.

Millions of them already have
been busy harvesting the precious
metal junk but now they were
massed on a nationwide basis to join the scrap campaign led by the
country newspapers.

State Governors have called upon
them to do a complete job and, as
they went about the search for old
metal needed by the mills' war furnances, they had this assuring word
from President Roosevelt:

"I know they'll do their part."

The heritage they sought to keep
by sweat and work in the salvage
and religion.

They remembered that because
sturdy and well-fed, they were a
great democratic contrast to the
children of Europe where food is scarce and terror strikes by day
and night.

Many a school declared a holiday
so that on this opening day of their two-week drive they could make a
whirlwind showing.

The army of boys and girls in
many states and towns was organized for the job on military lines:
As officers, privates, commandos,
scouts.

a title was permitted—because of
the seriousness of the job and the
reverence in which Lone Star state
children hold the name.

under terrible handicaps—fight-
picnic!" That's what Jack Mala-
mas, 43-year-old Greek confectionery store proprietor here 17
years, said when he left to be
drafted yesterday. And Malamas
—confident he's coming back and
reluctant to sell his business—
made this deal with his landlord:
He'll pay half of his Army salary
as rent for the store. If he doesn't survive the war, the owner
of the building gets the business.

SHE TRIED

Denver—A water hose—and not
old age—kept Mrs. Adella Dixon, 82, from putting out the fire. She
saw smoke pouring from the house
next door, ran out and grabbed
the hose but got tangled and
tripped, breaking her arm. Firemen put out the fire.

stamps, old coins and such are
common, but the man Salt Lake
police would like to see is the one
who collects artificial teeth. A
whole tray of them—unmounted
Dr. W. R. Worley's waiting room.

LIQUOR STORE CLERKS FIRED FOR "HOLIDAY"

Philadelphia, Oct. 5 (AP)—
Closing of nearly every liquor store
in Philadelphia was forecast today
as managers were ordered to suspend approximately 325 clerks who
demonstrated for a wage boost Saturday by taking a "holiday."

Frederic T. Gelder, head of the state Liquor Control Board, ordered
the suspension.

Union officials called his action
a "lockout" and said if a single clerk
was refused opportunity to return
to work pickets would be posted in front of each of the city's 87 stores.

Payless Suspension

Commenting on his suspension
order, Gelder said Governor James
has the legal right to dismiss any civil service employe for "the good of the service." He planned to confer with James, who was at the world series in New York Saturday.

"When the clerks return to work,
they will be suspended without pay," Gelder said. "The Liquor Board
has not ordered any stores closed.
But we'll have to close stores if we don't have a sufficient number of
clerks to operate them."

Max Breslow, field representative
of the State, County and Municipal Workers' union (CIO), said employees would meet today before the
stores' opening time to map strategy.
He reported that 75 or 80 per cent
of store managers voted yesterday

Stores Closed

According to Breslow, the managers decided to march en masse
to Liquor Board offices here and
protest unless the order barring the
clerks was rescinded by noon today.

The clerks' "holiday" Saturday
closed most liquor stores in Allegheny county and Philadelphia, as well as a number in Washington
and Beaver counties.

The union demands a 20 per cent
increase in base pay of $1,200 a
year for clerks and a comparative
increase for managers.

Court Approves House Candidate

Pittsburgh, Oct. 5 (AP)—The state Supreme court upheld today the
naming of John W. Murphy, Scrant-
on attorney, as democratic candidate for Lackawanna county congressman to succeed the late Rep.
Patrick J. Boland, democratic whip
of the House.

May 19 primary, but nevertheless
he received the largest number of votes. The democratic state executive committee, under the party
rules, chose Murphy to fill the vacancy.

Patrick McLane, who ran second
to Boland in the primary, and a
group of Lackawanna county republican voters later appealed a Dauphin county court decision up-
holding the committee's nomination
and ordering that Murphy's name
be placed on the November ballot.

The appellants claimed that the
substitute nomination should have
been made by the voters writing in
the name of another candidate on
the primary ballots.

Murphy, arguing his own case, said
a write-in vote was impractical and
that the vacancy should be filled as

Belleville, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—The state police substitution which houses
seven members of the criminal investigation detail on nearby Rock-
view penitentiary grounds was damaged by fire yesterday. Deputy Warden C. C. Rhoads said a defective flue touched off flames in the roof of the frame building.

OPENS TUESDAY IN SHIPPENSBURG

The Gettysburg charge of the United Brethren church will be represented at the 154th annual session of the Pennsylvania Conference
of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ which will convene
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday
in Shippensburg. The Rev. E. E.

The Rev. Dr. N. B. S. Thomas,
who ended his ninth year as pastor
of the Gettysburg charge, will leave
for the conference early Tuesday
morning. David McDannell from Salem U. B. church is the lay delegate from the local charge and E.
E. Hutchison of Memorial U. B.
church here is the alternate.

Several features
Several unique features combine
to make this year's meeting unusual. First, the progress toward organic unity of the Evangelical
and United Brethren denomina-
tions is arousing interest. The
joint commission on church federation and union of the church of
the United Brethren in Christ and
the Evangelical church" after a
thorough canvass of the confession
of faith has issued a book entitled
"The Discipline of the Evangelical United Brethren Church," which is to be given a thorough
study by the ministers and leading
laymen of the two bodies before
final action is voted upon by the separate denominations. The fact
that the outstanding representatives of both churches have
agreed in this blending of discipline, does much to encourage
those who are anxious to see this
evidence of Christian unity.

For the first time in many years
the conference will report a full
benevolent budget. In the few instances in which handicapped
churches have not been able to
meet their quotas in full, second
mile churches have given beyond
their allotment, thus enabling the
conference to report a 100 per cent
offering toward benevolences assigned by the general conference.

In addition to this are the large
contributions toward the ministerial pension fund of $1,000,000. The majority of the churches in the cooperating territory will report their quotas as paid in full. Others
are striving to pay their opportunity during the next year. Attention will be given to this objective
in the session. Judge William N.
McPaul, Baltimore, an outstanding denominational layman, will give
take part in a special period de-

Large Contributions

While the churches will report
unusually large contributions for
religious work, there will be a
marked decrease in Sunday school
attendance. Some of the larger
churches report the smallest average attendance in many years.

The drafting and enlisting of mul-
titudes of young men is keenly felt.
In addition to this, there is the
assist in the war program. In spite
of this obstacle to the boosting of
Sunday school attendance, the pastors are reporting little decrease
in the number at the morning
preaching services. This is unique
with a proportionate increase in
school.

Special attention will be given to Lebanon Valley college in its relation to changing conditions growing out of the war and financial
needs arising from these conditions. Dr. Elmer Funkhouser, a prominent churchman from Mary-
land, will preside at this meeting
and President Dr. Clyde A. Lynch
will address the gathering. The
board of administration has been
studying the situation and a special
report will be read to the conference.

Rural Church Night

Wednesday night will be featured as rural church night, with
sections. Dr. W. V. Dennis, of Penn State college, will bring a
special message relative to the work of the rural churches in the present emergency.

In order that the work of the
conference may be completed in
three days, there will be a number of committee meetings Mon-
day preparing reports and detail
lar sessions. The Rev. Mr. Daugh-
erty and Mr. Burger are members
of the nominating committee, as is
also the Rev. I. G. Nangle, Thur-
mont, Md. Other ministers from
this vicinity who are members of the committees include the Rev. Dr.
N. B. S. Thomas, Gettysburg, committee on Elders' Orders; the Rev.
W. M. Beattie, Jefferson, and the Rev. Dr. K. Reisinger, Greenmount, Md. Ministerial Pensions and An-
nuity, with the Rev. A. W. Garvin,
Taneytown, Md., as an associate;

ter, Md., teller. The Rev. Mr. Beattie
is also a member of the Council
of Administration, and the Rev.
Mr. Reisinger as member of the
of Study. The Rev. Mr. Garvin is
the conference printer.

The theme of the Conference will

Cards Take Third Straight From World Champions

BEAZLEY TO FACE RUFFING IN 5TH GAME

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—The mighty Yankees looked beaten and demoralized and out of pitchers as they went into the fifth game of the 1942 World series today against the St. Louis Cardinals, one of the most under-rated clubs ever to fight its way into the classic.

Defeated twice running in their park by a team they had confidently expected to trounce, jittery and crippled and feuding with the umpires, the proud bombers looked ready for the kill. A vast majority of those who had witnessed the series to this point expected the wild-running Cards to win again today and close out the championship, four games to one.

Talk With Bats

When they rallied twice in the closing innings to slug out a 9 to 6 victory in yesterday's tussle before a record series throng of 69,902 at Yankee stadium, the daring young men from the west left little doubt in anyone's mind that they had what it took.

The previous day they had done it with pitching, when their Lefty Ernie White blanked the old champions, 2 to 0—the first Whitewashing administered to a Yankee team in a World series since 1926. Yesterday the Cards said it with their bats, and for the second time in the series shook off a crushing home run by the Yankees' Charley Keller to break a resultant tie and come on to win.

Everyone was much impressed with the Cardinals. The locals had to be shown that a crowd of comparative youngsters could come in and practically run the Yankees right out of the stadium, and the lads from Missouri obliged them. In the subways and in the public houses, men were declaring solemnly that the Cardinals might be one of baseball's truly great teams.

Experts Are Groggy

The experts, themselves slightly groggy, were not disposed to argue very much about it. Practically all of them had thought the Yankees would win the series. But they had to admit they seldom had seen such baseball played as the Cardinals had poured into the Yanks since they suddenly found themselves in the ninth inning of the opening game at St. Louis and pounded Red Ruffing from the mound.

They agreed that the Yankees were in semi-desperate straits for pitching when Manager Joe McCarthy was forced to call upon the 37-year-old Ruffing again today. Red has been strictly a once-a-week finger the past season, and he faced the Cards today with less than his normal rest. Despite the brilliance of his first game effort, when he set a World series record by holding the Cardinals hitless for the first seven and two-third innings, the odds appeared to be against Red's stemming the youngsters again.

Beazley Up Ruffing
As for Manager Billy Southworth, he was in position to come back with Johnny Beazley, the strong-armed kid from Tennessee who brazened out threat after threat to subdue the Yanks in the second game. Thus it was winner against winner, but the 23-year-old Beazley, with lightning in his fast ball, and the strength to pitch all day, looked a better bet than Ruffing.

The only disappointing thing about the Cards up to this point had been the failure of their top pitcher, Mort Cooper, winner of 22 games in the regular season, to win either of his two starts in the playoff.

NEW DETROIT PRO COACH

Detroit, Oct. 5 (AP)—Huge John (Bull) Karcis, 33, less than a year removed from a high school coaching job, today rolled up his sleeves and went to work as head coach of the Detroit Lions and successor to big Bill Edwards. Karcis, 235-pound former Carnegie Tech and National Football league fullback, was elevated yesterday by owner Fred L. Mandel from backfield coach after the Lions had dropped their third successive game, 28 to 7 to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Karcis thus became Detroit's fifth coach in five years and sixth since the franchise was moved here from Portsmouth, O., in 1934.

AGREES WITH F.D.R.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—H. W. Prentiss, Jr., former president of the National Association of Manufacturers is "thoroughly in sympathy" with President Roosevelt's inflation program but adds, "it's a pity it wasn't done months ago." The Armstrong Cork company head said "eventually, it seems to me, we will need a properly devised tax bill to supplement the anti-inflation program."

RECRUIT KILLED

Washington, Pa., Oct. 5 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Paul Edward Pilling of nearby Wolfdale, who was scheduled to enter the Army Air corps ground forces tomorrow, was killed when thrown from an automobile which crashed into a pole here last night. Two companions were unhurt.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Oct. 5.—In the middle of the Yanks' big inning yesterday the wind finally unfurled a big banner that had been draped consolately around the flagpole. . . . It said: "New York Yankees, World Champions 1941." . . . There's your story of the series. . . . The Yanks still are good, but they're not the irresistible Yanks of a year ago, and the Cards are a livelier, more dangerous club than the Dodgers were last fall. . . . At that, if St. Louis doesn't win today, we wouldn't be surprised to see the thing settled only when one club runs out of pitchers. . . . Those worries about getting back to St. Louis, if necessary, seem to have faded out. Somehow, the clubs found room for all hands on a train tonight.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

F. W. Thomas, London (Eng.) Star: "Properly to enjoy baseball, you need lungs of leather, a throat of brass and a vivid and vicious vocabulary."

SERIOUS STUFF

Maybe Mr. Thomas' apt observation (see above) explains why we didn't enjoy yesterday's game. . . . The largest crowd in World Series history was there and you couldn't tell from the noise which was the home team. . . . Red Rolfe did all most as much hollering as the fans in the first few innings. From the way he kept gabbing at the ump and his teammates, he must have been practicing for that Yale coaching job. . . . Did you know this year was the first time the Yanks have lost a series game in which they out-hit the opposition since away back in 1923? . . . Joe DiMaggio has read "Victory Through Air Power" twice, but Charley Keller seems to be the only player who is applying it. There was plenty of air power when Keller hit that one into the stands yesterday.

FIRST AID

Notre Dame's footballers might have had a hint of what was due to happen to them last Saturday if they'd seen the goings-on at Georgia Tech's practice field last week. . . . The entire squad had a workout with stretchers, two of them hoisting one who played the part of "victim" onto a stretcher and totting him off the field. . . . Seems the Red Cross has established a first aid station in Tech's training rooms and the players will serve as stretcher bearers if a disaster ever hits Atlanta.

CLEANING THE CUFF

New Jersey's new boxing commissioner, John Hall, is waiving license requirements for soldiers in order to encourage the boys in army camps to do a little leather-flogging in nearby cities. . . . Freddie Fitzsimmons' bowling emporium near Ebbets Field is doing such a big business that Freddie is enlarging the place. . . . One reason for calling off the Augusta Masters golf tournament is a shortage of "Masters." . . . The club isn't expecting so many golfing big shots to make the winter tour.

BULLET BOOTERS LOSE

The Gettysburg college soccer team lost its opening game of the season Saturday afternoon by bowing to Penn State on the latter's field 7-0.

Bullets Trounce Western Maryland In Final Minutes

Scoring two touchdowns in the last three minutes of play, the Gettysburg college football team came from behind to defeat Western Maryland here Saturday in the season's opener for the Bullets 20-10 before a crowd of approximately 2,500 fans.

A penalty for pass interference gave the Bullets the ball on the visitors' 1-yard line late in the last period and from there Dick March plowed over to send the Bullets ahead for the first time 13-10. Hartman booted the extra point on a placement kick.

A third Bullet touchdown came exactly two plays later. Baden kicked to Godwin who juggled the ball and got back to his own four where he fumbled with Al Hart recovering. Hardy then crashed through right tackle for the tally. Hartman's kick for the point was wide.

Western Maryland served notice on the Bullets that they would have no easy time by piling up a 10-0 lead midway in the second period.

Penalty Prevents Score

The game opened with Baden kicking to Godwin who returned to his 23. After failing to gain Kaplan punted to March who returned to the Western Maryland 49. Beaver and Hardy pounded out a first down on the visitors' 38. After Beaver was thrown for a two-yard loss on an end run, Hardy dropped back and while on the dead run whipped a 45-yard pass to Yovicsin on the 3 who went over standing up. However, the play was nullified and the Bullets penalized 15 yards back to the Terror's 45 for pushing.

Midway in the first period Western Maryland took possession of the ball on its own 38 through a punt by Hardy. Kaplan then passed 10 yards to Godwin who swung back and forth across the field to race 50 yards before being dropped by Jim Hardy. With the ball on the 2-yard stripe O'Keefe smashed through the line to score. Kaplan booted the extra point on a placement kick.

Late in the first period Godwin recovered a Bullet fumble on the Gettysburg 18. Three straight forward passes were batted down and then Kaplan attempted a 26-yard placement boot for a field goal but the kick was wide and low.

At the start of the second quarter a 15-yard penalty against the Bream-men gave Western Maryland a first down on the Bullets' 26. Kaplan then passed about five yards to Terry who scampered 18 yards before being dropped on the three. Here the Bullets put up a gallant goal line stand, and aided by a five-yard off side penalty, pushed the visitors back to the eight. Standing on the 16-yard mark Kaplan then booted a perfect placement to send Coach Byham's outfit out in front 10-0.

A 57-yard run by Chuck Beaver for a score put the Bullets back in the ball game several plays later. Gettysburg received the kickoff and Beaver returned to his 29. A pass netted 7 yards and then Joe Cervino, who did some nice line plunging all afternoon, cracked through for a first down on the 43. On the next play Beaver went through his own left tackle, cut back toward the south side of the field and aided by some nice down field blocking, ran un molested for a score. Blackwood booted the extra point.

The third period was scoreless with the Bullets clearly being the better team and keeping the Terror's

Yankee Stadium Helps Cards Win Says Ruth

By SID FEDER

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—In between bites of the sandwich, the big guy leaned up against the lunch counter underneath Yankee Stadium and explained how it's just one of life's little jokes that has the Yankees two down and one to go against the Cardinals in this World Series.

The big guy used to be a pretty fair country ball player himself, and a Yankee to boot. The name is Ruth—George Herman Ruth, sometimes known as the Babe. And what he could do with a bat but in his heyday used to give opposing pitchers the blind staggers.

"Y'know," the Babe pointed out, "it's a funny thing. For years everybody's been saying how the Yanks are good only because their ball park was built especially for them; they could hit all those homers simply because the field was laid out with the idea that they'd knock that apple into the stands."

Homers Are Lost

"Well, here we've lost two games in a row in our own ball yard. And if those two games had been played in Sportsman's Park, the Cards' home grounds, we'd have won at least one of 'em."

"Well, just look at what happened," the Babe went on. "Saturday the Cards won 2-0. If the game is played in St. Louis, we win 5-2. How? That's easy. Joe DiMaggio hit a 400-footer to left center in the sixth that Terry Moore had room enough to run after and pull down. Joe Gordon sent Stan Musial up against the 350-foot sign in left for his drive in the seventh. And Slaughter had to back right up against the right field wall, 300 feet from home plate, to haul in Charley Keller's clout in the ninth. In St. Louis, all three of 'em would have been homers. And don't forget, there were fellows on base when Gordon and Keller hit those shots, too."

"And take yesterday's game. The Cards won 9-6. In the fourth inning, DiMaggio hit a honey. It went 420 feet into left center, and it was just an out, because Moore had room to go back for it. In Sportsman's Park, that would have been out of the lot."

PLAY OF GRID LEADERS IN U.S. VARIES WEEKLY

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Oct. 5 (AP)—As subtle as a dollar alarm clock is the impression that this football season will be one without form.

This view isn't caused by the early defeats already posted to the records of Minnesota, Texas, Notre Dame, Louisiana State, Fordham and other annual contenders for recognition. Rather, it's the variance in the play of a club from one week to the next.

Louisiana State pushed over Texas A. & M. on September's last Saturday but was a pushover for Rice in October's opener. Pittsburgh was a 50 to 7 victim of Minnesota one week but a 20 to 7 master of Southern Methodist the next. And the Gophers followed their top-sliced win by losing to the Iowa Pre-flight Cadets, 7 to 6.

Reserves are Lacking

The lack of consistency was predicted by numerous coaches as the distinguishing mark of the present campaign in a pre-season Associated Press poll. They attributed it to lack of adequate reserves because of the war's manpower demands and the use of freshman.

For the third straight week the Iowa Cadets of Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman will tangle with Big Ten opposition. This time it will be Michigan, already the conqueror of the Great Lakes squad.

The Georgia pre-flighters oppose Duke, a surprise 20 to 7 loser to Wake Forest, and North Carolina's Cloudbusters tangle with North Carolina State. The California Naval Aviators are idle.

Princeton, spilled by little Williams, and Navy move into the New York Yankees stadium and Army, safely past Lafayette, is host to Cornell, last lost for the first time in six contests to Colgate, 18 to 6.

Colgate invades Dartmouth and Clemson comes up from the south for an engagement with Boston college. The Eagles crushed West Virginia, 33 to 0.

Penn at Yale

Other eastern appointments have Penn at Yale, William and Mary at Harvard, and Kansas State the opposition for Duquesne.

The Midwest offers the Stanford at Notre Dame battle plus the appearance of Southern California, held to a scoreless draw by Washington, at Columbus. Wisconsin collides with equally unbeaten Missouri at Madison.

In the south, Florida engages Auburn, another of the hot and cold teams with a win over Tulane but a loss to Georgia Tech on its list. Georgia goes against Mississippi, Alabama tries to ground the Pensacola Flyers while the area's big game is the meeting of Louisiana State and Mississippi State.

Tennessee, which all but annihilated Fordham, 40 to 14, picks on little Dayton. The New York Rams stay home to entertain North Carolina.

Texas scrimmages with Oklahoma. Texas Christian is host to the scoreless Kansas University outfit and Arkansas and Baylor tangle in a southwest conference affair.

The Pacific coast interest will be centered on the Oregon State-UCLA battle. California, picked to replace the Beavers as Conference champs but spilled by Lon Stiner's eleven Saturday, 13 to 8, plays powerful Santa Clara.

DELONE WINS AGAIN

Delone Catholic high school won its second straight football game Sunday afternoon by defeating York Catholic high 13-0 in a game played at McSherrystown.

MAD SCRAMBLE IN SCHOOLBOY GRID LEAGUES

By JERRY WEINSTEIN

Harrisburg, Oct. 5 (AP)—The wide-open scramble for honors in Pennsylvania's many scholastic football conferences received another thorough mixing over the week-end with these still indefinite results:

Big fifteen: Hazleton, Lebanon and Shamokin ahead in the still-young campaign.

WPIAL: At least 11 teams still showing spotless records in Class AA competition.

Eastern conference: Minersville, Kingston and Hanover township setting the early pace.

Western conference: Ebensburg, Windber and Punxsutawney threatening Tyrone's domination. Boasting two conference victories each, Hazleton, Lebanon and Shamokin stood out in big fifteen circles, with triumphs over Allentown, Lancaster and Easton, respectively. Bethlehem notched its initial league success and Harrisburg William Penn upset Reading.

At least 11 teams survived another week of furious WPIAL action with Homestead, Alliquippa, Clairton, Ambridge, Connellsville, Altoona, Jeanette, McKees Rocks, Rochester, Turtle Creek and Wilkensburg grabbing the headlines.

Minersville's triumph over Ashland won the Southern division lead in the Eastern conference while Kingston and Hanover township shared the top in the Northern division. Shenandoah, with four straight successes, remained in seventh place behind Minersville because its victims were unable to win in previous starts.

Tyrone's Western conference champions slammed Jersey Shore for their fifth straight but the mathematical lead went to Windber, Ebensburg and Punxsutawney. The trio lists 120 points each, 10 more than Tyrone. Hollidaysburg, knotted with Tyrone for the lead last week, bowed to Phillipsburg.

MILK SHORTAGE IS REPORTED

Reporting a serious milk shortage, the Lancaster Milk company in a recent letter to dairy farmers in Adams county who sell milk to the Lancaster firm calls upon the dairymen "to take every step possible to increase your production at the quickest possible moment."

With the statement that "we are having difficulty finding sufficient supplies of milk for our daily needs along with milk supplies needed to supply Army contracts," the company makes practical suggestions on means of stepping up the milk yield.

The letter follows:

"Dear Patron: Our local markets and milk markets in general are seriously short of milk at this time. We are having difficulty finding sufficient supplies of milk for our daily needs along with milk supplies needed to supply Army contracts."

"We, therefore, are writing this letter to urge you to take every step possible to increase your production at the quickest possible moment. We recommend that if you have any calves you can let go, get rid of them at once; if flies are still bothering your cows, start immediately using fly spray; be sure that your cows are being fed so as to hold them at their maximum production and try to put all the flesh possible on your back springs so that they will produce as heavily as possible when they come fresh."

"However, we believe that most of our producers can help this situation by the addition of more cows to their herds. Please advise our plant managers or field men promptly, if you know of any dairies that can be added to our supplies."
